.London. Summarizes British feeling about assassination of Lincoln. Reiterates negro freeholding policy. Expects if Jefferson Davis flees to Mexico, Maximilian will seize his resources in exchange for recognition. Baxter thinks Civil War issue was really whether constitutional action would overcome violence. Centralization and Bureaucracy two foes to be chained. Mentions infantine society for instructing females in mid-wifery.

«New York» The writer encloses «Henry Ward» Beecher's sermon. "I think, if our friends manage wisely, that we shall get a vote to dissolve; but I may be mistaken. W. P. «Wendell Phillips» will no doubt exert himself to the utmost"(to continue the American Anti-Slavery Society.) The writer tells an anecdote, presenting an analogy to the folly of some Abolitionists. Concludes that if "Phillips, P. P. «P. Pillsbury» and the Fs «Fosters» choose to wear the 'old clothes' of the American Anti-Slavery Society, after they are thrown away, let them."

‹New York› Names those who went to the anniversary meeting of the American Anti-Slavery Society. "We had, yesterday, our invariable accompaniment to our anniversary, a dismal, pouring, north-easterly rain-storm ..." W. Phillips was the first speaker at Dr. G. B. Cheever's church. He stressed the importance of the negro's right to vote. W.L.G. and Phillips disagreed on the question of dissolving the Society. C. L. Remond "made, as usual, a querulous, fault-finding talk, going, of course, with Phillips", who favored continuing the Society. The National Freedmen's Association held a meeting at the Cooper Institute. Mentions the death of John Hopper. The mother of Mrs. W. L. [illegible]son Jr. is returning to Boston with W.L.G.

To Miss Weston «Caroline Weston»

«Durdham Downs, Bristol, (England)» The writer was staying with Harriet Lupton when "the joyful intelligence of Richmond's fall & Lee's surrender came" and also when the news of Lincoln's death was announced "in large placards on news boards." The previously hostile journals joined in the "common utterances of sympathy with your people & reverence for your martyred President." The writer joined a sewing circle for the Freedmen's Aid; it consists of members of the Lewin's Mead congregation, called by Mrs. Armstrong, and meets in the house of the minister, R. C. Jones. Considerable ignorance about the freedmen was manif[illegible]d by the members. The writer has read E. Quincy's farewe[illegible] the Nat. Anti-Slavery Standard.

«Dublin, (Ireland)» The writer acknowledges the receipt of a newspaper. Discourses on British interest in the Civil War. The membership of nearly all public meetings has been 10 to 1 in favor of the North. Pro-Southern meetings had generally to be held behind closed doors. The writer expects that in a few years the English people will be unwilling to admit "that so large a proportion of the aristocracy & ruling classes sympathized with the South." He regrets the split in the Anti-Slavery ranks. Believes that the efforts of Abolitionists should not be relaxed, and that the withdrawal of "so many of the ablest veterans of the cause" will give the impression that there is "nothing mor[illegible] fight for." Garrison and Phillips should not appear as [illegible]ents. The writer heard from

"No sooner did I begin to preach boldly against the awful sin of holding men in bondage, than the democrats began to plot against me." The writer is sending a copy of a sermon preached in 1861 on Buchanan's Fast-day, over which the Democratic press "howled" for five weeks. Although a clique was formed to drive him out, the writer stayed until, with the aid of a few faithful, he had transformed the church into an Anti-Slavery one. His work there being done, the writer accepted a call to the church in Northampton. A [illegible] ago the writer preached a sermon on the negroes' social [illegible] political rights, which caused «Pittsburgh» Lectured very poorly in behalf of the freedmen's cause on Dec. 1 in Cincinnati. "I do not take to Cincinnati at all ... Its proximity to the Kentucky shore has necessarily contaminated it with contempt for the negro ..." The Freedmen's Aid Committee has received a good deal of clothing and money from England, but very little from Cincinnati. The train trip from Cincinnati to Pittsburg took 17 hours. Is staying with Dr. E. H. Irish, where he found G. Thompson. Mentions a meeting to promote the freedmen's cause at which he, G. Thompson, Rev. Shipherd and Judge Bond spoke. Will leave soon for Philadelphia. Is still angry about the theft of his money. Ends with i[illegible]uctions about mail, money, etc. A.L.s. 4 p. 8 1/8 x 4 7[illegible].

«Glasgow» The writer had a most agreeable voyage home in the Cuba. In spite of the care of a large class, the writer found time to review his impressions of America. "You must know that I am a bad Scotchman, half a republican & an anti-Calvinist so that I should have to confess to an impartial person (I hate impartial persons) that my liking for America may arise as much from sympathy as from merit on either side." Expresses gratitude for hospitality found in New York and New England. Encloses some verses for their sentiment, but does not wish to have them printed in the Atlantic. The writer criticizes the American gove[illegible]nt's policy toward the rebels.

«Roxbury, (Mass.)» Wendell and Lucy Garrison are coming to visit him and Mrs. G. "Dr. Crosby and Miss Andrews are now exerting their combined magnetic forces upon her «Mrs. G.'s» paralyzed system ..." Quotes from a letter written to him by H. C. Wright from Holton, Me. in which F. J. G. is spoken of with great affection. Expresses great admiration for H. C. Wright's good qualities. Mentions the death of J. B. Yerrinton. Reviews the political situation. Thinks that Pres. Johnson "means to make, if need be, a forcible issue with Congress in December." Read H. Villard's account of "the brilliant reception of the victorious Prussian army at Berlin ..." Thinks F. J. G. may reach [illegible]h before Mrs. H. Villard.

To Samuel May Jr. No.26

:Roxbury, (Mass.): Was sorry to hear that S. M. Jr. had been sick. Heard also that S. J. May had been ill, but learned since that he has recovered. Warned S. J. M. to take care of his health. Heard from W. P. Garrison that the National Testimonial needs someone to solicit contributions in New York. Infers that Dr. Bellows had been unable to do it himself. Thinks that the Testimonial committee should bring the fund-raising campaign to a close. Mentions his straitened circumstances. Doubts if Mrs. G. will ever get well. His shoulder is still very painful.

[Bristol] Discusses European political situation at length. Whigs might introduce a few radicals such as Foster and Starfield provided that the premier is a Whig. Household and lodger suffrage will ensure radical ministry. O'Neil Daunt opens up question of Irish grievances to Mr. Bright. Thinks legislative independence for Irish provinces only proper solution. «Rockledge» Comments on the observance of New Year's Eve and the anniversary of Fanny (Garrison) Villard's marriage. Regrets that F. J. Thinks that Fanny is too impulsive and daring. H. Villard still suffers from neuralgic pain. Was sorry to hear that H. Villard's aunt "received no benefit from the encasing of her knee for so long a time." Mrs. G. is better and receives "magnetic manipulation three times a week from Miss Andrews." «Roxbury, (Mass.)» A China tea set, sent by H. Villard as a Christmas present for Mrs. G. finally arrived. W.L.G. encloses a letter from F. J. Garrison, whose "epistolary facility" he praises. "Each weekly letter costs nearly half a dollar." Heard that the addressee, J. M. McKim and C. F. McKim are going to keep house for themselves. Feels sorry for John Ritchie, whose young wife died. (Roxbury, (Mass.)) Was much interested in F. J. G.'s account of the Christmas Festival in Munich and the presents given to him and Fanny (Garrison) Villard by her German relatives. Expresses his appreciation of their kindness. Thinks that H. Villard's relatives may have had doubts about his marriage. Wants a look of Emma Villard's hair to show to Mrs. Rockwood, "a good healing medium," who can probably discern the cause of Emma's anemic appearance. «Roxbury, (Mass.)» Mentions a severe snowstorm. Agrees with S. M. Jr. that the best use of the Francis Jackson bequest would be to turn it over to the N.E. Freedmen Aid Society. W. Phillips will probably want it given to the American Anti-Slavery Society for the support of the National Anti-Slavery Standard, "and the agitation of the suffrage question." W.L.G. cannot see why the Jackson bequest should be used for the latter purpose. Refers to a present for S. May Sr. Will not attend any of the meetings of the Mass. Anti-Slavery Society. Hovey were opposed to the use of Anti-Slavery funds for the support of the National Anti-Slavery Standard. The objections of both Jackson and Hovey were overruled by Garrison. The addresses claimed that it was not of vital importance "that all of the $10,000 should go to the Freedmen, instead of half," but it would be better if it did. «Leicester, Mass.» The writer discusses the sale of Mr.Webb's Life of John Brown. Says that the country would have restored the Southerners to power and political equality if Pres. Johnson hadn't revealed "their cherished spite and craft." Mentions the restoration of military rule in the South. Says Garrison plans to go to Europe. Mentions a rumor that Robert Purvis, Mary Grew and Wendell Phillips also plan to go. Mrs. May plans to send Whittier's Snowbound and Tent on the Beach to Mr. Webb. Discusses William Hickling Prescott, the historian.

«Roxbury, (Mass.)» Begins with a discussion of his plans for his European trip. The World's Anti-Slavery Conference has been postponed to Aug.26-27. Gives his travel plans. Mrs. G. has the erroneous idea that the Villards and F. J. G. are not returning until next year. W.L.G. will receive a clock from a colored delegation. "The Spring has been cold and backward ..." Comments on the opening of the Great Exposition at Paris, which does not seem to have had much effect on transatlantic travel. W. L. Garrison Jr. went to Philadelphia to bring back his wife and child. W.L.G. thinks their daughter Agnes prefers him [illegible] her parents. W. P. Garrison has a sore hand. To Helen Eliza (Benson) Garrison No.40

[At Sea, Thursday ....] Is now within twenty hours' sail of Queenstown. "For twelve hundred miles we were enveloped in a dense and disagreeable fog ... But there was no abatement of our own speed. On we rushed, with a full head of steam and all sails set ..." Nothing was done to warm the saloons. Describes the passengers, among whom is Bishop Payne of Wilberforce University. Criticises the behavior of Rev. Dr. Lothrop. Names other individuals on board. Says that there is "far less wine drunk at the table than I have ever known before ... The chief employment on board is eating and drinking ..." G. Thompson has [illegible]t been seasick. Praises J. Ritchie for enabling G. T. t[illegible] home. Gives his itinerary and instructs W. L. Garrison J[illegible] to send him certain information. A.L.s. 8 p. 10 x 6 in. Addressed to "Dear Wife," written

To «Anne Warren Weston»

«Dublin, (Ireland)» The writer comments on the differences among American Abolitionists. Feels that Garrison and those who agree with him "are most likely to be the wise ones-but that if Wendell Phillips and his allies think there is work to be done by them as a society, very little harm can result ..." Since the addressee is no longer in Paris, the writer is not inclined to visit the exhibition there. He failed to welcome Garrison at Liverpool on account of a foolish oversight. Discusses the Fenians. "... they represent the feelings of millions of the poorer classes and if the government hang any of them they will make a great mistake." The English are "an insolent nation & have abused & ridiculed us so persistently ... that ... a very general feeling is one of alien-

To Helen Eliza (Benson) Garrison No.42

«Paris» Tells of his travels. Was amazed at "the vast and astonishing variety of things to be seen at the «Paris» Exposition. ... The poorest display is made by our own country ... Ultimately, we shall be able in all things to take perhaps the highest rank." H. Villard neither drinks or smokes. Has had "one or two attacks of neuralgic headache." Writes for the Chicago Tribune. Says that Fanny (G.) Villard has not been changed in any way by her marriage or European residence. Met Senator Doolittle, who was going to Russia. Sarah Remond called on W.L.G. Mentions the death of G. Thompson's son Herbert. Has no[illegible]t seen Napoleon III. "Nearly all of the crowned heads [illegible]ope are soon to be her «Paris» ..." Lists special entertainments in their honor. Remarks on the slight observance of the Sabbath by the French.
